YEAR 7

KEY STAGE 3

STUDENT'S NAME: _____

What is homework and extended learning?

Staff will communicate all homework and extended learning tasks to students via Show My Homework. Every student has a personal login to access their homework. Parents have an overview via their own personal login.

Homework can be accessed via an open calendar at rednock.showmyhomework.co.uk or from the front page of the school website should there be any log in issues.

Year 7 homework will have two elements:

1. Consolidation: This will be work set by the class teachers to consolidate specific classroom learning and will follow the published homework timetable agreed with their class teacher, guided by the published Homework Timetable. Students will record their personal homework timetable in the front of their student planner. It is expected that students will have at least one consolidation activity per subject per week (expect variation due to curriculum time). All activities and deadlines are to be recorded in the student planner.
2. Extended Learning Opportunities – ELO: Students will complete at least one extended learning task per term. The core principles of ELO are to provide choice, challenge and extension. All deadlines are to be recorded in the student planner.

What can homework be?

Homework can be any of the following which have been defined to help clarify:

Consolidation

Students further practice skills developed in the lesson or apply theory (ideas). Presentation could include poster, model, powerpoint, etc.

Investigation

Finding out information to support learning in class. Presentation could be done in the same way to Consolidation.

Literacy

Checking and improving pieces of work using the Literacy Guide which can be found in the Student Planner.

Learning

Key term definitions, spellings, vocabulary, places or facts which may be tested. Revision techniques like look, cover, write, check should be used.

Revision

Reviewing and improving notes (not finishing lesson work). Highlighting key terms and information. Summarising, creating mind maps, revision notes or flash cards. Revision should be active not just re reading.

If students have no set homework they should review and revise work or use specified websites or computer based revision tools.

Exam Practice

Using past papers or sample questions to respond in exam style and constraints. Often completed or reviewed using the mark scheme to guide.

D.I.R.T. – Directed Improvement and Reflection Time.

Tasks associated with responding to feedback.

A student specific focus allows them to develop areas of personal interest. ELO complement the learning in the classroom. The project / extended approach develops independent study and decision making as well as time management.

Subjects using ELO will provide a menu of tasks termly and communicate expectations and deadlines clearly to students.

How long is homework / extended learning?

As a rough guide, students should spend 1 to 2 hours on homework per evening. This time will obviously need to be flexible to accommodate home life and commitments to things like Clubs. For revision, students should follow best practice of little and often with short breaks e.g. 30 minutes revision, 10 minutes break.

Where and when?

Students should work in a comfortable environment which will promote concentration. We are surrounded by distractions but simple steps can be taken like no TV or leaving a phone in another room or putting it on silent, at least. Closing Facebook or disabling alerts on our devices while we work.

Support

Students have access to the LRC (Learning Resource Centre) until 4.00pm Monday to Friday. All the Literacy and ICT resources are available.

Many departments run catch up and revision sessions at various points throughout the year to prepare for assessments and exams.

Homework Club runs in Room 342 on Monday – Thursday lunchtimes, for students who want to work on homework or ELO. A member of staff is available to assist students if they need help or advice. Students can bring their lunch. All students have access to ICT facilities during this time.

Teachers will set homeworks to extend and consolidate classwork. Homework is NOT finishing off classwork. Students are expected to complete all work by deadlines and communicate promptly with their teacher if they have difficulty doing this. Students should expect 2 x 20 minutes homework or 1 x 40 minutes per week for timetabled subjects. A comparative amount of time should be dedicated to work for subjects who give Extended Learning Opportunities. Where tasks require a longer time, teachers may set homework over longer periods.

Homework tasks and deadlines will be communicated via Show My Homework

DRAMA HOMEWORK: Learning Lines/Bringing in Props/ Researching Around the Topic if Required/Completing Written Scripts

ICT HOMEWORK will be set by teaching staff in line with the class timetable
