

Mortimer Primary Teaching School

would like to invite you to a day of
'Embracing music appreciation in life in modern Britain'

The day will consist of two workshops for a member of your teaching staff and 6 children of year 3/4 age from your school.

In Workshop 1 children will work with talented musician Graeme Hare from beatofdrum.com. He will take children on a whistle stop tour of African and Samba beats on various tuned and non-tuned percussion instruments. As a teacher you will be able to enhance your own music skills, learn rhythms that could be taught in your own classroom and gain more confidence in your own music subject knowledge.

Workshop 2 will show you how to create your own short film, using stop motion animation with "I Can Animate". Who will star in your movie? That's right – Who better than the Lego Minifigures. Easier to work with than Hollywood actors and a great stimulus for storytelling. You will edit your masterpiece in "I Movie" adding a musical score and titles to complete your brick blockbuster.

From this day you will take away skills that can be replicated in your own learning environment and which meet the needs of the new computing curriculum for years three and four.

Cost - £100 per school
