

Summer Newsletter 2018

Dear Parents

I hope everyone had a lovely Easter despite the unpleasant weather!

Our topic for this term is “A Midsummer Night’s Dream” by William Shakespeare. This tale involves fantasy, comedy and love and we will be linking all of our creative sessions to this. We will make our own love potions in art and explore the different characters such as “Bottom the donkey” in sensory story. Kelly Sheridan and Pamela McGahon will continue to lead art and music sessions respectively. This term we will also be trialling a new style of food technology called baking therapy. Each student will be assigned a role in the production line and we will all work collaboratively to create a product. We hope this style of session will promote interaction between peers.

Our timetable for physical sessions remains the same as last term with plenty of opportunities to be physically active. The students continue to respond to the physio and social games session and have begun participating in an obstacle course as part of this. The group also continue to work towards their “New Horizons” ASDAN work which focuses on developing communication, social skills and life skills.

We continue to receive support from Asia Koszuta (class occupational therapist), Carra-Lynn Lindsay (class speech therapist) and Frances Slowie (class physiotherapist).

As always, please do get in touch if you have any queries or questions via the home/school diary, phone or by popping into school. I am looking forward to another busy term working with your young people!

Best wishes,

Ros and the team
