STANLEY AVENUE

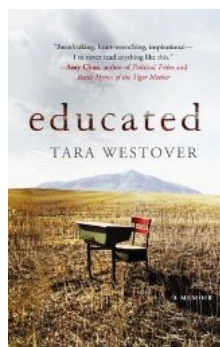

LIBRARY NEWSLETTER

JAN 2019

Book of the Month

Educated - Tara Westover

Westover grew up in a fundamentalist Mormon cult. She hadn't been registered for a birth certificate, had never been to school, and had no medical records because her father didn't believe in doctors or hospitals. As she grew older, her father became more radical, and her brother more violent. At 16 she decided to educate herself, eventually studying for a PhD at Cambridge. Borrow a copy and see for yourself why this was one of Barack Obama's favourite books of last year!

Author Nikesh Shukla to visit ACS

On Friday 8th February, author Nikesh Shukla will be visiting ER library to talk about his new book Run, Riot - a thriller set in real time that explores the importance of community and standing up for what you believe in. Copies of Run, Riot and The Good Immigrant - an anthology of essays by British writers of colour about race and immigration in the UK, edited by Nikesh - are available to borrow from SA Library. If you would like to attend his talk, keep your eye out for more information closer to the time!

NEW FICTION & NON-FICTION TITLES!

On the hunt for a good book?

If you find it difficult to discover new books you enjoy, Ms Parkin has now put together some fiction and non-fiction Recommended Reading Lists for Key Stage 4 and 5 students - pick one up from the library lending desk.

STUDENT BOOK REVIEWS! Nineteen Eighty-Four - George Orwell

'If you like dystopian futures or anything with dark and depressing themes, then you may love George Orwell's 1984 for its gripping take on what the future may hold. Since the start of the perpetual war, The Ministry of Truth has kept the common people in their place. We follow Winston Smith and many like him who are constantly being watched daily, in their homes, their workplace - you name it. Will Winston be able to survive by writing in his private journal and finding love, or will he inevitably be brainwashed like everyone else in this unforgiving world?' - Baron Nazareno, LS1
