

Battle of The Bands Concert

By Edward Hall

This is a school concert like no other in this city! Enfield Grammar is once again going to show a live concert to hundreds of people this March. A concert that has lasted for many years is coming round, again!

“The Battle of The Bands”(BoTB) is a unique concert in which many bands, ensembles and orchestras compete to win a prize and be crowned winner of the year’s BoTB concert! What’s more is that a guest judge, who is usually a more famous band member from another musical background, gets to pick the band to be known as the year’s BoTB winner!

The staff does not only run this concert, but there is a whole team of “stagecrew” members working backstage to create a professional performance. This includes: a highly advanced soundboard, which takes two people to control; a stage light system; spotlights-two for each half of the stage and the actual stage, like putting chairs and music stands in place or arranging instruments on the stage.

See my interviews of two bands that will perform, the head of music, Mr A Ness, who runs the whole concert and keeps it in order and Mr Monk as well. To conclude, the BoTB concert is a truly amazing show and it is a must for anyone willing to watch!
