

Future Chef Competition news:

The Local Final of a national cooking competition, 'FutureChef', was held on the 17th December at Barnet & Southgate College. Thomas Gubb, 10P and Ethan Harris, 10R competed against other students in the local area. The boys had to prepare and cook a hot main course and dessert for two people, within a budget of £7.00 and under timed conditions.

Whilst the boys didn't win the competition, we were proud of their effort in preparing for the event and of their focus and maturity on the day itself.

The finished dishes are shown above.

Well done to both boys for a fantastic achievement.
