Supporting students with Medical Conditions

The school recognises that pupils with long term medical conditions should be properly supported so that they have full access to education, including school trips and physical education. Some students with medical conditions may be disabled and, where this is the case, the school will comply with its duties under the Equality Act 2010. The SENDCo will liaise with the Welfare Officer in order to facilitate the writing of Individual Health Care Plans for students with medical needs.

Some students may also have special educational needs (SEN) and, in some cases, an Educational Health Care Plan, which brings together health and social care needs, as well as their special educational provision. In this case the SENDCo will follow the guidelines as set out in the SEND Code of Practice (2015).

Please see the school's Medical Needs Policy.

Identifying pupils with SEND and assessing needs

The Code of Practice outlines a graduated response to meeting individual students' needs; recognising that there is a range of special educational needs. High quality teaching, differentiated for individual students, is the first step in responding to students who have SEND. Additional intervention and support cannot compensate for a lack of good quality teaching. As such, subject teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of all the students in the classes, including students with SEND.

When deciding whether special educational provision is required, the SENDCo considers all of the information gathered from within the school with regard to the student's progress, alongside national data and expectations of progress. Consideration of whether special educational provision is required we will start with the desired outcomes, including the expected progress and attainment and the views and wishes of the pupil and their parents. We will use this to determine the support that is needed and whether it can be provided by the school's core offer, or whether something different or additional is required.

This information gathering should include an early discussion with the student and their parents. These discussions with parents will be structured in such a way that they develop a good understanding of the student's areas of strength and difficulty, the parents' concerns; the agreed outcomes sought for the student and agreed next steps. Other means used to help identify students who may have special educational needs include:

- Information gained from previous schools. The SENDCo, Head of Lower School, Learning mentors will contact all previous schools.
- SENDCo attends transition meetings arranged by LA and school.
- Information gained from Reading tests, CATS, school baseline assessments.
- Information gathered from teachers, progress leaders, Heads of year and parents.
- School's internal assessment system which can monitor an individual's progress across different subjects (SIMS, Go4Schools, SISRA).
- Records of behaviour, attendance and punctuality.
- Discussion at weekly inclusion meetings.

Where a student is identified as having SEND, schools should take action to remove barriers to learning and put effective educational provision in place.

At Enfield Grammar School the quality of teaching for all students, including those at risk of underachieving is reviewed regularly and carefully. This includes reviewing and where necessary, improving teachers' understanding of strategies to identify and support vulnerable students.

Teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of the students in their class, including where students access support from teaching assistants or specialist staff.

Identification of Special Educational Needs

The purpose of identification is to work out what action the school needs to take, not to fit a student into a category. At Enfield Grammar we identify the needs of students by considering the needs of the whole child which will include not just his special educational needs.

The Code of Practice suggests that students are only identified as SEND if they do not make adequate progress once they have had all the intervention/adjustments and good quality first teaching. All teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of the students in their class, including where students access support from teaching assistants or specialist staff.

The following factors may also impact on progress and attainments:
(These alone do not constitute SEND)

- Disability (the COP outlines the 'reasonable adjustment' duty for all settings and schools provided under current Disability Equality legislation). The school would endeavour to make any reasonable adjustment or changes in order to accommodate a student with identified SEND. However, the school is constrained by the nature and condition of its buildings (which has several staircases with no lift facility) and the fact that it is on a split site.
- Attendance and punctuality.
- Health and welfare.

- English as an Additional Language (EAL).
- Being in receipt of Pupil Premium.
- Being a Looked After Child.
- Being a child of a Serviceman/woman.

Consulting and involving parents and pupils

We will have an early discussion with the pupil and their parents when identifying whether they need special educational provision. These conversations will ensure that:

- Everyone develops a good understanding of the pupil's areas of strength and difficulty.
- We take into account the parents' concerns.
- Everyone is clear on what the next steps are.

Notes of these discussions will be placed on the pupil's record and given to their parents.

We will formally notify parents when it is decided that a pupil will receive SEND support.

Parents/carers of students with SEND are kept fully informed of the provision that is being made for their sons. Where appropriate, parents receive a copy of the education plan with needs and strategies and are invited to review progress towards the targets at review meetings.

Subject teachers and SENDCo have regular meetings with parents and encourage active involvement with the school to help their son overcome their difficulties. The school will always seek permission from parents before approaching other professionals and outside agencies for information or referrals about their sons.

Assessing and reviewing pupils' progress

The Code of Practice outlines a whole school graduated response to students' needs by adopting a four-part cycle, through which earlier decisions and actions are revisited, refined and revised. This graduated approach has four distinct stages

ASSESS, PLAN, DO and REVIEW allows for a considered approach, careful review and utilises specialist expertise in order to match interventions to the needs of the students. Parents/carers and young people are involved throughout the process by contributing their views and communicating their concerns.

ASSESS

The assessment data, progress and attainment of all students is tracked and monitored at least three times a year by subject teachers, Heads of Department, SLT, SENDCo and Form Tutors. This will identify students who are underachieving or at risk of underachieving.

PLAN

We recognise that we must formally notify parents if their child is being provided with SEND support despite prior involvement and communication. The teacher/Form Tutor/Head of Year and SENDCo agree in consultation with the parent and pupil the adjustments, interventions and support to be put in place as well as the expected impact on progress/outcomes, development or behaviour along with a clear date for review.

DO

The SENDCo supports the teacher/Form Tutor/Head of Year and advises on the effective implementation of support and further assessments. The teacher/tutor/HOY remains responsible for working with the pupil. Where interventions involve group or one to one teaching away from the teacher, they remain responsible for overseeing this and work closely with teaching assistants or specialist staff involved to plan and assess the impact of support and how it can be linked to classroom teaching.

REVIEW

A review of the targets and impact of support will be held with the pupil and their parents/carers and their views will feed back into the analysis of the student's needs. Support and targets are revised in light of student's progress with regard to agreed outcomes.

Our approach to teaching pupils with SEND

In line with the four-part cycle the school adopts a graduated approach to supporting students' learning.

Wave 1: Universal

At the universal level, all students will receive high quality teaching, differentiated to meet their needs. Details of students' needs and strategies will be disseminated to subject teachers, enabling them to make adjustments and differentiation. This adjustment is the first step in responding to students with SEND and assists teachers in the cycle of planning, assessing and evaluating. Additional support and intervention cannot compensate for a lack of good quality teaching; as such subject teachers are responsible and accountable for the progress and development of all the students in the classes, including students with SEND. It is anticipated that the majority of students make the expected progress at this level.

Wave 2: Targeted

Should a student not make the expected progress within the universal arrangements, it may be appropriate to consider making additional short term special educational provision to remove or reduce any difficulties with learning. This will take the form of the graduated four part approach of assessing the needs of the student, planning the most effective and appropriate intervention, implementing the intervention programme and reviewing the impact on the student's progress towards his individual learning outcomes.

Wave 3: Specialist

In a small number of cases it may be necessary to seek specialist advice and regular long term support from external specialist professionals. This may include referrals to the Educational Psychologist Service, Speech and Language Therapy, Specialist teachers, Child and Adolescent Mental Health (CAMHS). Referrals to these services will need to be prioritised.

In addition to high quality teaching, differentiated for individual pupils, we provide the following interventions:

- In class support.
- Reading programmes.

- Speech & Languages programmes.
- Homework Clubs.

We make the following adaptations to ensure all pupils' needs are met:

- Differentiating our curriculum to ensure all pupils are able to access it, for example, by grouping, 1:1 work, teaching style, content of the lesson, etc.
- Adapting our resources and staffing.
- Using recommended aids, such as laptops, coloured overlays, visual timetables, larger font, etc.

Evaluating the effectiveness of SEND provision

We evaluate the effectiveness of provision for pupils with SEND by:

- Reviewing pupils' individual progress towards their targets.
- Reviewing the impact of interventions after 6-8 weeks.
- Monitoring by the SENDCo.
- Holding annual reviews for pupils with EHCPs.

Enabling pupils with SEND to engage in activities

All of our extra-curricular activities and school visits are available to all of our pupils, including our before and after school clubs.

All pupils are included and encouraged to go on our residential and field trips. Members of the SEND Department may accompany students on these trips.

Support for improving emotional and social development

The inclusion panel meets weekly and the members are Learning Mentors, Deputy Head of Inclusion, Welfare Officers, SENDCo and Head of Lower School to plan and coordinate the support for students with social, emotional and mental health needs (SEMH).

Working with other agencies

When necessary the school seeks advice and support from a variety of services including:

- Educational Psychology Service.
- Speech, Language and Communication.
- Behaviour Support Service.
- Visually Impaired Service.
- Hearing Impaired Service.
- Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service (CAMHS).
- Careers service.

Removal from the SEND/AN register

Pupils will be removed from SEND/AN register:

- Where agreed outcomes have been met.

- Where progress meets our expectations.

This will take place in consultation with parents/carers, students, staff and any other relevant agency working with the students.

Complaints

If parents believe that their son has a learning difficulty or behaviour difficulty at school which has not yet been identified by the school, or if they are unhappy with the provision the school is making for their son, they should first contact the Head of Year. If the parents think their son should be given more support they should raise their concerns with the SENDCo. Most concerns will be resolved in this way. If parents still feel dissatisfied they may choose to raise their concerns with the Headteacher in accordance with the complaints procedure of the school.

Monitoring arrangements

This policy will be reviewed by the SENDCo annually. It will also be updated if any changes to the information are made during the year.

This policy will be approved by the Governing Body annually.
